Guilty verdict in sexual assault case

By Janice Harrington

Carstairs resident Phillip Racine was found guilty of sexual assault last week after a two day trial in a Calgary court of Queen's Bench.

Racine, former vice-principal of the Hugh Sutherland School and a Carstairs town councillor, will face sentencing on March 3.

The charge of sexual assault was laid last year after a January 25th party at the Didsbury home of one of Racine's colleagues during which a woman's breast was fondled.

A second charge of rape, laid at the same time, but stemming from a separate incident, was stayed.

The 44-year-old Racine, is currently on leave with the County of Mountain View School Board. Shirley Van Eaton, Mountain View Assistant School Superintendent, said the board will not make any decisions about Racine's employment with them until after the appeal process has run its course.

"From a legal standpoint, the board really can't make any decisions until the full legal process has been completed, and that includes the possibility of appeal. When that happens, then the school board will decide what will happen."

Teachers convicted of criminal offenses are also subject to disciplinary action under the by-laws and Code of Professional Conduct of the Alberta Teachers' Association. Dave Jeary, Executive Assistant with the ATA said teachers found guilty of unethical conduct can face penalties ranging from a verbal reprimand to the suspension or withdrawal of their teaching certification with the province.

Crown prosecutor on the case Shirley Jackson was pleased with the judge's decision and said Racine may receive a fine, jail or suspended sentence when he returns for sentencing next month.

"The convictions vary depending on the circumstances," she said. "But this is a different case because he was in a position of trust at the time of the incident. The judge made such a firm ruling in this that he may also come down with a firm sentence, but you can never tell."

Downtown revitalization concept building

By Janice Harrington

The creation of a business revitalization zone is being discussed by a committee of concerned area business people who want to ensure the survival of Didsbury in these tough economic times.

The committee, which grew from one formed four years ago to look at how to develop downtown Didsbury, is currently meeting regularly with a provincial facilitator to learn more about what they can do to keep area residents shopping at home and to attract new customers.

Cary Hatcher, committee and President of the Didsbury Chamber of Commerce said the idea of establishing a business revitalization zone came after an application for funding from the Main Street Alberta program fell through.

"Originally we had hired a consultant through the Tourism Action Committee and then developed a plan on how to improve the downtown physically and through promotion," he said. "We took the plan to the Main Street Alberta program for funding but that was a no go, so then we decided to look at a BRZ and what it could do for us. Now we are just finding out how the whole system works."

The BRZ is a program under which business areas can be deemed special zones, eligible for funding for upgrade and promotion. The idea has taken hold in a number of communities, such as 17th Ave. in southwest Calgary, where restorations and other improvements have been made in an effort to draw customers back to stores in the area.

Hatcher said the committee's work right now with the provincial facilitator is part of a learning process which will eventually lead to the creation of a definite plan on how Didsbury businesses can attract more customers. Once a plan is drawn up and receives the support of local merchants and businesses, a petition would be made to town council to formally establish a BRZ. Once a BRZ is established, the real work on realizing the goals of the committee can begin.

"No doubt about it, it's a lot of work," said Hatcher. "But a survey showed that 51 per cent of disposable dollars are being spent out of town. We need to get people to focus inwardly and see all the unique stuff we have here."

Concerned area business people are working on solutions to keep Didsbury a strong and vital rural community. One possible alternative is the establishment of a business revitalization zone to help business areas like this attract more customers.

Teachers contract ratified

By Janice Harrington

A new school contract between the Bow Valley School Authorities Association and its teachers was ratified last week, staving off a threatened teachers' strike.

The contract, approved by 84 percent of the teachers under the BVSA, gives teachers a 5.2 percent salary increase for the 1991/92 school year, retroactive to September 1, 1991.

The new contract also outlines a plan which sees school boards under the BVSA pay 75 per cent towards benefit plans for teachers.

Ratification of the contract comes in time to ward off a proposed teachers' strike, which was threatened late last year after a similar contract offer was rejected by the teachers. The new contract was made through negotiations by boards and teachers under the direction of provincially appointed mediator.

Other salary increases for teachers around the province averaged 5.5 percent for the 1991/92 school year.

One of the gifts in my Christmas stocking was a tiny, red, soft cover book, it's title is, Ladle Rat Rotten Hut, and it is distributed by Swamp Press, Amhurst, Mass. The entire book is a sort of combination play on words/pun/puzzle and the first paragraph reads as follows: "Wants pawn term, dare worsted ladle gull hoe lift wetter murder inner ladle cordage, honor itch offer lodge, dock, florist. Disk ladle cordage, honor itch offer lodge, dock, florist. Disk ladle gull orphan worry putty ladle rat cluck wetter ladle rat hut, an fur disk raisin pimple colder Ladle Rat Rotten Hut."

If you can read that for the sound and not for the sense it translates quite easily. Actually it's easier if someone reads it to you because then you are not being distracted by the obvious incongruities. The translation is as follows: "Once upon a time there there was a little girl who lived with her mother in a little cottage on the edge of a large, dark, forest. This little girl often wore a pretty little red cloak with a little red hat, and for this reason people called her, Little Red Riding Hood."

There is no author listed in the little book and no warning about, "No part of this book may be used or reproduced. . ." because Little Red Riding Hood has long since become part of the public domain and Ladle Rat Rotten Hut is probably the thousandth remake of the story. In James Thurber's version, The Little Girl and The Wolf, the little girl, "saw that it was not her grandmother, for even in a nightcap a wolf does not look anymore like your grandmother than the Metro Goldwyn Lion looks like Calvin Coolidge. So the little girl took an automatic out of her basket and shot the wolf dead." Moral: It is not so easy to fool little girls nowadays as it used to be. I remember our kids watching a Saturday morning Looney Tune version wherein Little Red had huge innocent eyes and a sweet little voice and managed to blow up, beat up and generally maim the poor wolf several times in an 8 minute clip. I know there is a Bugs Bunny version, I remember the cape hiked up over his tail and he had some difficulty in tucking his ears under the hood. Pogo had "Little Red Ridey Hoops" and many a romance/comedy movie is a variation on the same theme. There is a conservationist group that wants to ban the story because it gives wolves a bad name. If they read Thurber or watched Looney Tunes they would have also worried about the reputation of little girls.

The Fairy Tale has probably existed for almost as long as we have had language and especially in their original form, the themes have been ones of violence, cruelty, lunacy, maiming, theft, dishonesty, and racial discrimination. These really awful stories continue to charm us because it seems to be part of our nature to be fascinated by violence. One rarely finds a big news story about a little girl who takes cookies to Grandma and then returns safely to her cottage.

These stories origins are often untraceable but L.R.R.H. is an exception. We know that it, and such classics as "Sleeping Beauty," "Blue Beard," "Puss In Boots," and "Cinderella," were written by the 17th Century Frenchman, Charles Perrault. At least Perrault committed them to paper and took credit for writing them. Some folklorists believe that L.R.R.H. existed in the middle ages. He also recorded tales that until then had only been preserved in the oral tradition. His original Sleeping Beauty is too awful for me to repeat here and in his L.R.R.H. both Granny and Red are eaten. In an 1840 British version Red's father arrives and saves her but not Granny. The Brothers Grimm, 120 years later save both when a passing hunter hears snores, guesses what happened and rips open the wolf's stomach with a pair of scissors. "How dark it was inside the wolf," Red says. Then Grandma steps out and the wolf is chased away.

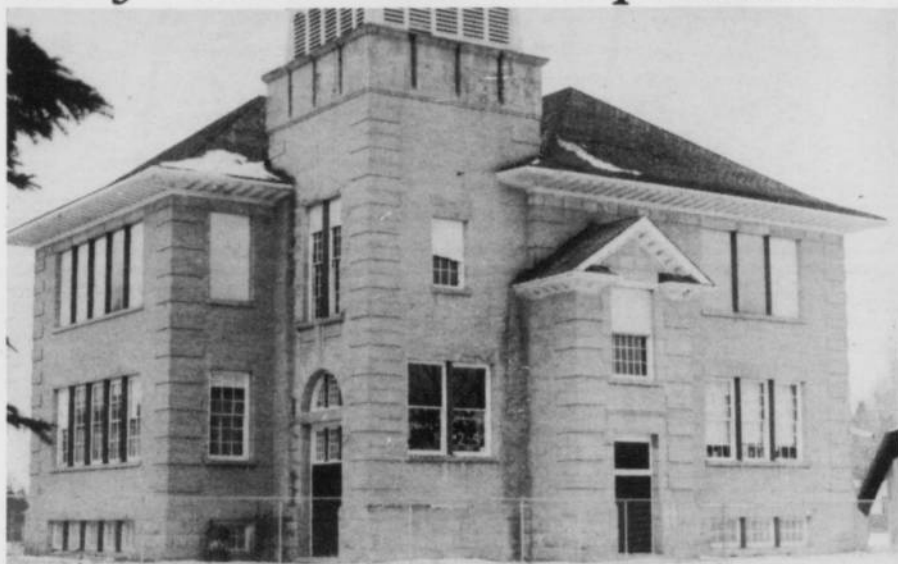

In what I assume is the newest version, (my little book), the wolf eats both of them. I have no idea what this indicates about our present society and because I don't want to be the only one left in a state of confusion I leave you with the moral from Ladle Rat Rotten Hut.

Roof raiser auction planned

Roof raising

The Didsbury and District Museum needs a new roof and funding is needed. To help out with the costs, a fundraising auction is planned for February 29.

By Janice Harrington

An auction to raise the roof of the Didsbury and District Historical Society is planned for February 29.

Arleen Douglas, President of the DDHS, said the auction has been organized in an effort to raise money to pay for roof repairs on the old school building which houses the Didsbury and District Museum.

The building, which the Society took over from the county in 1988, is in need of repairs totalling over $18,000.

"We need to replace the entire thing. It is the original roof from 1905 and made out of shingles," Douglas said.

The auction, being held at the Didsbury High School gym beginning at 10 a.m., will sell off an assortment of goods donated by local businesses and some private individuals.

"We aren't exactly sure what we will have," said Douglas. "Things are just coming in now. We will have some household goods, new and used things and we expect there will be some furniture as well."

Douglas said the Society hopes the auction, which will be run by local auctioneers who have donated their time, will raise about $3,000.

This auction will be the third held by the DDHS since its creation in 1978. Cost of renovations to the museum 1988 have reached nearly $19,000.

If you would like to donate your time of some items to the auction, call Arleen Douglas at 335-9216 or Denise Stevens at the Didsbury and District Museum.

Dieting gas problem solved

Take heed dieters!

That high-fibre life-style you've adapted to so well no longer has to mean a never-ending battle with the "internal combustion" that often results.

Now there's a solution to the embarrassing problem of consuming gassy foods such as beans, broccoli and cabbage. Scientists in Toronto have uncovered a new enzyme called "Beano" capable of breaking down complex carbohydrates notorious for causing flatulence.

Just three to eight drops of the substance added to the first bites of the offending food is reportedly enough to break down gas-producing sugars in the stomach. Tests indicate the foods can be fully eaten without any gaseous discomfort occurring.

"Beano," actually derived from the enzyme alpha-galactosidase (a type of mould) is considered safe enough to be sold as an "over-the-counter drug." The HPB (Health Protection Branch) recognizes Beano as an effective food-grade substance and recommends it be sold in the anticid section of any pharmacy or health food store.

Foothills Forage AGM planned

The Foothills Forage Co-op Association will meet for their AGM & Seminar on February 29, 1992 at Rotary House, Stampede Park, Calgary, Alberta.

This year's theme, Forage and Conservation, reflects one of the pressing issues facing society today. Attention is on conservation of our resources and Foothills Forage Association members can use these circumstances for the benefit of the industry.

Foothills Forage Association members will hear about conservation initiatives in Alberta such as Conservation 2000 and West Central Conservation Partnership. A panel of producer members will explore management practices designed for profit using conservation techniques and we will examine farmland conservation west of highway #2. The Pocket Gopher problem is also on the agenda.

Forage producers and others who are interested in forage production and marketing are invited to attend. For more information, contact the FFCA office at 244-4487.

working under any formal time line, Hatcher said they would like to keep up the momentum they have going now in order to ensure Didsbury remains a strong rural centre and continues to grow.

"When you sit down and list the assets and the liabilities of the town, you can see we are in pretty good shape," he said. "But making sure that continues is going to take a lot of education and communication."

Elsie Brander hosted the Feb. 10 meeting with eight members, three visitors as well as our Constituency Convenor, Gladys Dowell in attendance.

We opened by singing Red Sails in the Sunset, followed by our creed and the roll call which was A Strange or Wonderful Gift I Received or Gave; these ranged from toilet seats to Great Grandma's locket.

We each paid 2 cents for Groundhog's Day, 14 cents for Valentine's Day and 17 cents for Family Day, all to go to A.C.W.W.

After the minutes, we had a report on the Volunteers meeting and were reminded of our 50th Anniversary on Sunday, March 29 and then planned our last two card parties for Monday, Feb. 17 and Tuesday, March 10.

Correspondence consisted of a letter from our Provincial President, a thank you from the Croatian Fund for clothing donated and a letter regarding the District 5 Conference. It was reported that two bags and one box more of clothing had been given to Croatia. Delegates for District 5 Conference will be Jean Lust and Elsie Brander.

Gladys Dowell then gave her report. Convention in Olds this year will be June 9-11. Our specials for this year are Best of Bread and Best of Sewing.

Pat Van Tetering and Ellen Richardson will do the hospital visit this month.

The Handicraft Convenor then introduced Mary Warkentine and Jeanette Hunter who showed us how to do Afghan weaving. We were each given a sample of the netting and all tried our hand at this interesting craft.

Jean Swanson then had a bit of fun trying to piece together a Valentine. It was a close race, but Jean McCulloch found her pieces first.

The lucky cup was held by Gladys Dowell.

The March 9 meeting will be held at Lila Kurtz's home.

Maxacres S Joyce 34P 510562 has broken all milk production records of past by tallying over 11,000 kgs. of milk over a 305 day period.

Joyce is a daughter of former National Programme Sire: Jody's Imperial Surville and was bred by Max and Dora Scheieville and Sons in Grand Valley, Ontario.

The Alberta Jersey Cattle Club would like to congratulate the Rutley family for helping set a new All-Time, All-Class, Canadian record with Joyce by 487 kg.

The previous record was set in the Spring of 1990 by Valleystream Silver B Hilda herd.

Students at the Didsbury High School were treated to discounted pampering last Friday by the Beauty Culture class. Students got manicures, facials, hair sets and braiding all in preparation for their St. Valentine's Day Dance.

Hot Gossip?

By Janice Harrington

Gossip. The word is ambiguous, ranging in meaning from idle chitchat about the welfare of the neighbours to slander. It can be hurtful or helpful, depending in the intent of those doing the gossiping. Some consider it a great way to keep up on news about the community they live, while others avoid it like the plague.

Why do we gossip? Is there some primeval need to discuss the problems of others in order to make ourselves feel better about the state of our own lives, or is it merely a means to pass the time and to communicate in an easy way with those around us? Whatever the motivation, we have all seen how gossip can get quickly out of hand, ruining the reputations of fine people in the community by misunderstanding. But on the other hand, it can be at times beneficial, alerting people to the needs of their neighbours, and often times rallying a group to take matters into their own hands to help those who cannot help themselves.

So where do we draw the line? What is need-to-know information and what is just plain dirt? And how do we make sure those misunderstandings don't occur? Part of the solution is the bundle of paper you are reading right now. The community newspaper focuses on small areas and the people in them, presenting factual information about the issues and the residents currently being gossiped about. I have heard arguments against publishing information about people until they have been proven "guilty." Publishing names, they say, only serves to ruin their lives. But I don't see it that way. Leaving the rumour mill unchecked by the facts can, at times, be far more harmful. The community newspaper makes the facts available, at a glance, to everyone as a point of reference, and that only serves the best interest of both the gossip and the gossipee.

Series of thefts stump Police

Didsbury RCMP are on the lookout for the culprits responsible for a series of break, enter and theft incidents in the area between February 7 and 13.

Among the businesses targetted in the rash of breakins include: Feegs Propane Office in Didsbury, R.E. Tire in Carstairs, the Carstairs Community Hall, and twice at the Carstairs Co-op Grocery Store.

RCMP investigations reveal damages in each case ranging from pried doors to smashed windows. While only small quantities of candy and change were found missing from the majority of the businesses, a large quantity of cigarettes was reportedly taken from the Co-op Store.

Given the evidence to date, police consider the series of thefts to be related and are continuing their investigations into the matter.

Anyone with information relating to any of the offenses is encouraged to call the Didsbury RCMP office or Crime Stoppers.

Boundary proposal panned

Dear Editor:

"The Price of Freedom is Eternal Vigilance"

Your readers may have seen the maps of the proposed changes for the boundaries of provincial constituencies in last week's papers.

I would like to point out a few of the many implications that will undoubtedly arise if we can't stop this nonsense from going ahead.

What is really happening is an over-reaction to the fact that the cities of Alberta have grown in population in comparison to the rural population so there is some need to address that problem when it comes to providing a balance between the numbers of people that are represented by each MLA.

Unfortunately the way this is being carried out is worse than the problem to start with. For example, the Olds-Didsbury riding, of which we are part, runs from just south of Crossfield to just south of Bowden, and from a mile or two east of #2 Highway to the mountains.

The proposed riding splits the county halfway between Didsbury and Olds and the south half runs all the way into Calgary North Hill. The result is that there will be about 18,000 votes in the city and about 8,000 votes scattered over the whole area from Didsbury to Elkton to Cochrane to about 14th St. N.W. in Calgary and then north, includes Crossfield and Carstairs.

The north half of the county goes in with Olds and Sundre and runs clear north to Caroline, Rocky Mountain House and just west of Sylvan Lake.

Many other ridings around Calgary and Edmonton have been treated the same way—large numbers of city voters lumped in with much fewer rural voters, scattered over a very large area.

The result will be that people in rural areas will have virtually NO say in how they are governed.

The way the process of Public Hearings is set up, we have little chance of changing the proposal unless a lot of people get after this thing.

The first real chance is on February 25 at the Olds College from 7 to 9 p.m. The commission is holding 6 meetings there to hear our reaction.

Those who feel they can put something in writing are urged to do so—this comes down to numbers—the more of us that protest the better chance we have of overturning the decision.

If you don't feel you can write anything down, please for the sake of all of us—load up a car of friends and appear that night at Olds and show the Province that WE believe in making Democracy work.

Carstairs, AB

Home Care ceiling criticized

Dear Editor:

Inflexibility in home care regulations is forcing parents to leave their infants and young children in hospital rather than having them at home.

When the provincial home care regulations were expanded last year to include individuals under age 65, a ceiling of $3,000.00 per month was also introduced. As well, children who would normally have received home care funding under Handicapped Children's Services from the department of Family and Social Services are now covered by the Department of Health—a change I believe has created serious deterioration in home care services for children.

Before these changes, Handicapped Children's Services provided home support based on the young child's needs and if the family or doctors were unsatisfied with the level of services, they could appeal the decision to an independent board.

Now under the Department of Health's new regulations, people are allotted up to a maximum of $3,000.00 for home support with no avenue of appeal for parents or medical staff.

To demonstrate the anxiety created by the changes, here are a few families who are struggling to get enough home support to bring their young children home.

Eleven-month-old Nicholas Wegner who has spent the majority of his short life at the University of Alberta Hospital. His mother, Sue Wegner has been with him constantly in the hospital, has learned to perform all of her son's medical procedures and functions and has acquired the necessary equipment through service club donations. Because of the nature of Nicholas' illness, he requires a minimum of 70 hours of nursing care per week and 10 hours relief care. At present, home care officials have offered the Wegner's 40 hours a week for a three month period.

Samuel Hare, 12 months old also need 24 hour nursing care. Young Samuel was home 30 days before the parents were given approval for just 21 hours a week of home care. Although this figure was completely inadequate, it was made even worse because shifts were often cancelled with little warning to the parents. As a result of the lack of support the exhausted parents were forced to place Samuel back into hospital.

Nicholas and Samuel require 24 hour monitoring. The parents cannot possibly maintain a schedule of around the clock care, seven days a week, with one parent having to earn a full-time income. Under this pace, the health of the entire family could be in jeopardy.

New arrangement for Indians

Hon. Roy Brassard
MLA - Olds-Didsbury
Constituency

On January 23, Hon. John Oldring, Alberta's Minister of Family and Social Services, together with Hon. Tom Siddon, Federal Indian and Northern Affairs Minister, announced a new Administrative Reform Arrangement for the delivery of Social Services to Status Indians. This arrangement will provide more fairness in the delivery of services to both on-and-off Status Indians residing in Treaty 7 and 8 areas of Alberta.

The arrangement replaces the existing Transfer Agreement between the federal government and the province regarding Social Services for Indians in Alberta under Treaties 7 and 8. It does not alter the country's or the province's obligations under treaties, statutes, or the Constitution.

The arrangement is aimed at facilitating the administration and delivery of Social Services to Status Indians, as well as the funding of these services. According to the agreement the province of Alberta will fund Social Services for Status Indians living off-reserve and the Federal Government will fund Social Services expenditures for Status Indians on-reserve.

In addition, the agreement will eliminate many other inadequacies and inequities associated with existing arrangements. It may also allow interested First Nations and Aboriginal organizations to begin assuming responsibility for administering Social Services to both on- and off-reserve Status Indians.

I am pleased to see the development of the Administrative Reform Arrangement for Social Services. I believe that it is important to address the principle of ensuring equity in the provision of services to Alberta's Status Indians. Moreover, I am pleased that the agreement was the product of significant cooperation between the Alberta Chiefs, the Government of Alberta, and the Federal Government.

If you have any questions about the new arrangement, or just want to voice your concerns and opinions please call me at our constituency office at 556-3132, or my Edmonton office at 422-0141 (collect).

MP's corner

Louise Feltham
Wildrose M.P.

In my role as chairman for the Caucus Committee on Women's Issues, I find it necessary to make you aware of the Reform Party's stance on equal pay for equal work. They are against it! Deborah Grey, Member of Parliament for Beaver River represents the Reform Party in the House of Commons. She claims that she is not in favour of anything like feminism, affirmative action, because women are not like men, they are different but equal and they do not need special treatment. Maybe this kind of talk explains the fact that only one woman sits on the Party's Executive and she has been heard to say that there is no such thing as Women's Issues. This ideal also may explain the problem the Party has in attracting female members to its ranks; it generally attracts older, rich, white males.

The Party Leader admits having basically the same definition of roles as his parents did 30 years ago. It was only in 1929 that women were recognized as persons in this country. We cannot go back to the age when women did not have rights. Most of you realise the world has changed, violence against women is on the rise, women are quite often the sole income earner in a family, and many are single parents living below the poverty line.

The Reform Party would not change any of this, because they do not recognize these as problems. Most older, rich males do not see these issues as problems. Manning has already said he would cut all programs by 15%. This would greatly affect women in the lower income bracket. In his new caring society you would be expected to replace the state in caring for your relatives. This is just one of the Platforms of the New Party.

BID arms entrepreneurs

Those hesitant about starting up their own businesses in rural Alberta have little cause for cold feet now!

The Canada Employment Centre is sponsoring a Rural Small Business Management Program through Big Country Educational Consortium in Drumheller.

The program, designed by the Business Idea and Development Society (B.I.D.) at Olds College, is enjoying tremendous success since it began in October.

The objectives of the 32-week program include the introduction of such skills as: bookkeeping, marketing, business proposals, and employee management.

But flexibility and compromise are two of the strongest skills the Small Business Program stresses. To demonstrate this, students are encouraged to supply as much input as possible to what and how information is presented in the program.

Program Director, Amy Edwards feels fortunate to be able to adequately respond to various student needs. "We've brought in guest speakers to cover topics ranging from human relations issues to desktop publishing... it makes the students feel their ideas are valid and important."

Judging from their last session, Edwards says the majority of the students registering for the program are looking for a change not only in occupation, but lifestyle as well. "They [the students] want to take control of their careers and starting or owning your own business is an excellent way to accomplish just that," adds Edwards.

Student, Maureen Johnston, recently completed the practical-skills program. She feels the program prepared her for just about any challenge a small, rural business could present. "The program has given me a greater understanding of what is involved in running a business. Now I feel confident in my abilities to run my own business. These same principles can be applied to my personal life as well," Johnston says.

Edwards believes motivation and teamwork witnessed through the program are largely responsible for its success among students. "Ultimately, though, the students' success in the business world will depend on their own initiative. If the success of a new business depends on doing your homework, as the experts say, and as we teach, then these students are well on their way."

For student, Chris Haagen, enrolling in the Small Rural Business Program put her back in touch with the world of business today. "It makes me think differently about things like bookkeeping and computers. With the farm economy the way it is, it is time to get more employable skills. Plus, we have a lot of fun!"

If you would like more information about the Rural Small Business Management Program, or any B.I.D. program, please contact B.I.D. Society General Manager, Susan Banerman at (403) 556-8332.

How to prevent coyote predation at calving time

As the main calving season approaches, farmers should assess their management practices and take steps to discourage coyotes near their cattle says an Alberta Agriculture regional problem wildlife supervisor.

"Coyotes are opportunistic predators," says Bob Acorn. "They have an inborn ability to recognize and quickly take advantage of distressed or defenceless animals such as newborn calves, cows in difficult labor and sick or injured livestock. This means farmers should protect their livestock with preventative measures before and during calving."

Cows due to calve should be in well fenced areas and be closely supervised he says. First-term heifers require special attention because they are most likely to have birthing problems. Calving areas should have proper bedding and protection from wind and other weather. A lighted calving area also helps discourage coyotes and makes herd surveillance easier. Sick or injured calves and cows should be placed in a secure, protected areas as they are more susceptible to predation than healthy animals. These precautionary measures should also be taken with near-term ewes and lambs.

"Coyotes rarely attack and kill large, healthy cattle. Of all the confirmed coyote cattle kills in 1990, 96 per cent were calves less than five months old. The majority of these were less than one week old. Only one per cent of the confirmed coyote kills were of cattle older than two years," he says.

A coyote's scavenging instinct also puts an emphasis on proper disposal of agricultural carrion adds Acorn. "Dead animals are the main component of a coyote's winter diet. Where they can scavenge carrion is where you'll find coyotes. The presence of carrion on your farm will attract coyotes to the vicinity of your livestock, and increases the chances of predation. Improper disposal by one landholder can create coyote problems for neighbours."

Farmers should quickly and properly dispose of all dead livestock, stillborns, afterbirth and other animal's remains. The Livestock Diseases Act requires dead animals be disposed of within 48 hours he notes.

Acorn says the best approach for carcass disposal is through rendering plants. Rendering companies will pick up dead animals from farms within their business area. Dead livestock can also be hauled to a municipal disposal site that allows carcass disposal. Small carcass remains and carrion can be burned or placed in a covered disposal pit and limed.

Farmers concerned about nuisance coyotes can use two measures to remove them from their property. Landholders, and residents with permission of the landowner, can shoot coyotes on private property throughout the year. "Just the act of shooting helps to frighten coyotes away," he says.

As well, recent changes to the Wildlife Act now permit holders of a resident trapping license to use neck snares to capture coyotes during the fur season.

Signs of coyote predation include attacks and feeding on the flanks of small calves and considerable evidence of bleeding. If predation occurs, farmers should immediately contact their municipal agricultural fieldman for an investigation and assistance.

"Promptly cover the carcass at the kill site with a tarp to prevent the coyotes from feeding on the dead animal, and to protect all the evidence until a government investigator arrives," advises Acorn. "An examination of the carcass and death site by an inspector will confirm the death was from coyote predation, and not just coyotes scavenging on an already dead animal. This is necessary before compensation or other assistance is provided."

Fertilizer program deadline extended

Alberta Agriculture Minister Ernie Isley has extended the Alberta Farm Fertilizer Price Protection Plan deadline to February 28, 1992. "Many producers, especially those affected by drought in northeastern Alberta, are experiencing difficulty in meeting their financial obligations. Municipal representatives have requested that the deadline be extended to give farmers more time to apply," he says. The Alberta Farm Fertilizer Price Protection plan has been in effect since 1985 and provided over $135 million in rebates. The program officially ended on July 31, 1991. However, since purchases must be paid for at the time of application, farmers were given until January 31, 1992 to apply. Applications can be made at Alberta Agriculture district offices. For more information, contact Lloyd Andruchow in Edmonton at 427-5672.

Eastern producers receive $17 million

Eastern grain producers will receive $17 million under the Farm Income Protection Act for crops marketed in the 1990-91 crop year.

Payments will be made under the Act in accordance with the provisions of the Agricultural Stabilization Act (ASA), repealed in April, 1991.

The 1990-91 support prices for soybeans--as well as for winter wheat, spring wheat and oats grown outside the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) designated area--have been calculated at 90 per cent of the previous five-year average market prices, adjusted for changes in cash costs of production. Payments are made when the market price for a commodity falls below the support price.

Soybean producers will receive about $2.5 million based on a deficiency payment of $2.01 per tonne. Winter wheat, spring wheat and oats producers will be paid $9.1 million, $5.7 million and $0.1 million respectively, based on per tonne payments of $6.94, $42.96 and $1.36. No payments will be made for corn and barley.

Prior to the end of February, certification forms will be sent directly to producers who sold through the provincial marketing agencies. Other producers will be required to complete an application form and provide supporting documentation for their sales.

EduFarm ideas presented

By Janice Harrington

A strategy for turning the Olds College into an agricultural interpretative centre was made public last week at a meeting on the Olds College campus.

The "EduFarm" concept is one both the College and the Town of Olds hope will turn the Olds area into a major tourist attraction along the Calgary-Edmonton corridor.

At the first public meeting on the idea last Thursday, EduFarm Steering Committee Chairperson Sharon Carry said the idea for EduFarm grew from a tourism study which named the Olds College as a potential tourist attraction.

"This study identified the College as a place that could attract a lot of tourism," Carry said. "Already there are over 25,000 visitors to the campus each year, so we just had to look at what could make us even more attractive. That lead to the EduFarm idea."

Last Thursday's meeting was held to solicit public input on initial concepts by a team on consultants hired by the steering committee. The consultants estimate 75,000 people could be attracted to the area each year by EduFarm.

Ed Romanowski, consultant for Edmonton's Pannell Kerr Forster, said agriculture will be a great draw for people from urban centres.

"The public has lost sight of agriculture; its culture, its history, what it means to this country. It's important for people to regain an understanding of rural culture, and the environmental growth and movement out of cities is re-igniting interest in this."

Romanowski said initial concept for the development of EduFarm sees, among other things, construction of a 2 million interpretative centre on campus, riding stables, greenhouses and farm vacation tours.

"The whole idea capitalizes on a major resource we already have here," he said. "That way it will be lower cost, gradual in growth and won't disrupt life on campus completely."

The responses gained from last week's meeting, which was attended by about 35 area residents, will be used in the consultants' final report on the idea, expected in April. The report will contain a market analysis, concept development plan and a feasibility assessment.

Carry said she is very excited about the concept of EduFarm and hopes to see it develop into a major tourism plan for the area.

"This idea will benefit everyone, through partnerships with local people for things like farms tours and adventure farm vacations and through the visitors who come in with money to spend. It's a concept whose time has come, and it will help diversify our economy and show people the significance of agriculture in our provincial and national economy."

Rx for winter driving

Picture this: Your heart just skipped a beat, you feel your stomach sink to your knees as you hold your breath and hammer on the brakes.

Sound familiar? If you're like most people, this winter driving scenario is only all too familiar.

Dennis Combs knows this. He's seen accidents happen time and time again since he started working at the Mountainview Professional Driving School seven years ago. It's the kind of incident Combs says no one is immune to these days. "I think everyone has been in a situation at one time or another when they've misjudged a driving hazard. It's so easy in the winter to forget the simplest things... like how much room you should use to begin braking before an icy intersection."

While experience does help, Combs says accidents don't take preference to any one age group, and can happen to anyone regardless of special vehicle features. "A lot of people think front-wheel drives are better to have in the winter, but I'd just as soon go with a rear-wheel drive... especially when you hit a rut or something on the road. A front-wheel drive car is difficult to control," Combs remarks.

Of course, some cars are more effective at preventing the driver, or passenger from getting severely injured in an accident. Combs explains the Canada Transport rating system ranks the "average" car as 100. "Depending on the accident, of course, certain cars are safer to be in than others. The Chevrolet Chevette, for example, ranks at about 154." According to Combs, this means the driver of a Chevette has a 54 per cent greater chance of being injured in an accident than someone driving a Ford LTD, for example. The Ford chalks up 69 points on the rating chart, meaning the driver would have a 31 per cent greater chance of NOT being injured in the same accident.

Statistics aside, Combs stresses that most times, accidents are avoidable, especially the ones around town. "In Olds, I'd have to say the most common mistake people tend to make when they drive in the winter is not considering how slippery the streets can get and how much room they need to stop. It's so easy to prevent an accident from happening if you keep road conditions in mind."

Another popular glitch in local driving habits is over parking lots. The majority of accidents here are caused by motorists not checking properly before they back up. "This too, is easily preventable. All you have to do is back into your stall so that when you go to leave you just have to drive straight out," Combs recommends.

No matter how careful a motorist is in the winter, accidents are a fact of life, as is learning how to deal with their outcome effectively. "The first thing to do right off the bat is report any accident over $1,000 to the RCMP immediately. Don't get conned into making deals with the other motorist who may be trying to hide his suspended licence from the authorities," Combs says. "Make sure, even in small fender benders that you always get the other party's drivers license number, registration, and insurance before you leave the scene."

All this, and brushing up on your defensive driving skills, for course, could just pull you through another safe winter driving season.

Area workers win awards

Two workers in the County are being given the extra support they need to pursue further training in their chosen professions.

Shelley A Morgan, of Olds, and Lorna G. Allenbrand of Carstairs are being added to this year's list of 27 Albertans receiving Michael Luchkovich Scholarships for Career Development.

Both Morgan and Allenbrand will share the monetary award in their endeavours to pursue continued training in their fields.

In making the announcement about the recipients last week, Advanced Education Minister John Gogo said, "Michael Luchkovich promoted adult education at a time when few people could see the need. As a former teacher, he realized that education was a life-long experience. These scholarships recognize Albertans who have demonstrated exceptional ability to work and are taking the initiative to pursue further training. I commend their dedication and wish them continued success."

The Michael Luchkovich Scholarship for Career Development offers the province's labour force incentive and adequate resource to begin upgrading their education through short-term on part-time study. It offers a means to afford items such as books, tuition costs, and other supplies. Three competitions are held each year.

SUNDRE/WESTWARD HO NEWS

Sundre clean up continues

By Janice Harrington

Clean up of the James River area after a sweet gas blowout is continuing, with cost estimates growing.

Bob Snyder, Vice President in charge of Operations for Nova Corporation said insurance estimators are continuing to gather information about the damage caused by the January 8th explosion.

"We had insurance adjusters on the sight almost immediately after the event," he said. "We are continuing to look into claims for damage, although about half of the claims have already been settled."

Reports of damage began rolling in immediately after the spectacular explosion near Sundre which cut off gas exports around the country and into the U.S. Nova reported the gas to be back on line within 48 hours after the explosion, thanks to a bit of good luck.

"The repairs went very smoothly," said Snyder. "We have a large construction program already ongoing in the province, so we had the material and the labour to fix the problem on hand. We were able to get on line by late Sunday and got back to normal gas flows on Monday."

The cause of the explosion is still under investigation, and Snyder expects it may be awhile before any results are made public.

"Right now metallurgical testing is going on and that is very time consuming, so we don't anticipate any answers very soon."

Currently, Snyder said Nova is meeting with the public in the James River area to discuss concerns and damages, and anything else residents affected by the explosion want to discuss.

"We have been able to meet local residents and answer their questions and that has been a very important part of this whole process to us. We understand people's concern and we want to help them to understand our operations."

Ramblers game marred by brawl

Didsbury Ramblers, playing their third game in five nights, were the victims of an unprovoked attack by the Innisfail Eagles during Chinook Hockey League action Saturday evening.

Both teams entered the contest with reduced rosters due to injuries or commitments, and proceeded to provide the small crowd of loyal fans with excellent hockey until the last minute of the game.

In spite of four regulars being out of the line-up (Krebs, McCoy, Latimer, and Wray) Didsbury battled the bigger Innisfail club for 2 periods before bowing 10 to 5.

Innisfail took a 3-2 lead into the dressing room after the first period on goals by Chad McKinnon, Dean Edgar and Darcy Prudah, with Didsbury replying with goals from Mark Ferdine and Rob Brown. Shots on goal were 8-7 for Didsbury.

The second period was much the same as the first with both teams having excellent scoring chances while trading 2 goals each to close the period with Innisfail leading 5 to 4.

Scoring for Innisfail was Kevin Dzuba with 2 goals while Kevin Kurtz scored for Didsbury and Mark Ferdine collected his second goal of the night.

Innisfail out shot Didsbury 12-10 in the second period for a total of 19-18 shots after 2 periods.

The third period proved to be the downfall for the Ramblers with Innisfail striking for 5 goals to the Ramblers 1, including 2 while shorthanded to put the game out of reach.

Goal scorers for Innisfail were Kevin Dzuba with his third of the night as well as 2 by Keith Nachtengale and singles by Brent Schaffer and Wes Makofka.

Didsbury responded with their 4th power play goal of the evening with Alan Shields connecting, assisted by Chris Overwater.

With only 23 seconds left on the clock an Innisfail player ran Didsbury goalie Marty Krebs to start what can only be described as an ugly incident.

While Didsbury was on the power play and had a manpower advantage they suddenly found themselves outnumbered with Innisfail goalie Randy St. Cyr charging the full length of the ice to tackle a Didsbury player.

In the ensuing mix-up Innisfail sent a player off the bench to subsequently attack Didsbury player Kevin Kurtz who was already involved with a fight.

Full credit should be given to Didsbury coach Al McCoy and his players for not leaving the bench and compounding this event further in spite of the lack of discipline exhibited by the Eagle players involved.

When the smoke had cleared Referee Scott Bowden ordered the game over with 23 seconds left, and players off the ice.

A total of 16 game misconducts were handed out and a review by the league governor will be forthcoming.

"This is the fourth time this season that Innisfail has been involved in this type of action," commented manager Larry Tennant and upon reviewing the game sheet with coach Alan McCoy. A complaint will be filed to the league, particularly in reference to their having players leave the bench.

"This is not the type of hockey that the Ramblers hope to bring to Didsbury, and it is unfortunate that with a roster of 22 players we only manage to dress 12 to 13 players at any time," commented Tennant. "The players that have game in and game out dressed and played in spite of injuries, should be applauded for their dedication even though they have been outmaned and outplayed most of the year."

"We are trying to promote good clean hockey and coach McCoy and his players have shown that they are willing to put personal pride and conviction on the line to re-establish the same," commented Tennant.

Didsbury awaits the loser of the Innisfail/Trochu Provincial match to resume play in the B side after losing a tough 2 game series with Vulcan.

Upcoming league games see Innisfail at Didsbury, February 22 at 7:30 p.m. and Didsbury at Trochu on February 27 at 8:30 p.m.

Correction

Scott Stetson was not the recipient of an All-Star award during the Didsbury Dragons Invitation Basketball tournament as was reported in last week's Review. It was in fact Shawn Stetson who received the award.

Alberta Winter Games

Dick Fowler, Solicitor General and M.L.A. for St. Albert and Doug Fulford, a director on the board of the Alberta Sports Council recently announced that the City of St. Albert has been awarded the 1994 Alberta Winter Games. The Alberta Games are a grass roots multi-sport and cultural festival designed to encourage the competitive participation of Alberta's developing athletes.

The surprise announcement was made in St. Albert during a luncheon attended by City officials, business leaders and the St. Albert Bid Committee. Fowler indicated that St. Albert is a community of dedicated, enthusiastic and hard working volunteers. "These Games will be an opportunity for St. Albert to again demonstrate to all Albertans their spectacular ability to blend talent with committed volunteers."

Dr. Stephen C. West, Minister of Alberta Recreation and Parks and responsible for the Alberta Sports Council is pleased with the selection. He noted that the population of over 40,000 residents is ready to take up the challenge of staging the 1994 Alberta Winter Games, which will draw approximately 2,200 young athletes and coaches participating in 22 sports.

On behalf of the City of St. Albert, Mayor Anita Ratchinsky said she is pleased to take on the challenge of staging these Games.

A tremendous display of community support and enthusiasm, excellent facilities, strong municipal commitment and the fact that St. Albert previously hosted a very successful Alberta Summer Games in 1979 were all factors in the decision.

I Wish I Had Said That

We all possess 20/20 hindsight. How often after the fact do you come up with just the right reply? Whether you are speaking to one other person or to a large group, it is all a form of public speaking.

4-H prepares you

One of the requirements of a 4-H member is to participate in a public speaking activity during the project year.

At the time it is the most dreaded event in their life (it has been documented that people fear public speaking more than death), however as time passes members credit public speaking as the most beneficial learning experience 4-H provided.

Teachers can pick out 4-H members when it is time to give reports in school. They are the students that are more relaxed in front of a group, plus they slow enough for the information to register with their class members.

When it comes time for job applications, many employers are more inclined to interview an applicant who lists 4-H as a past activity on their resume.

Be prepared to present

1. When it comes time for a public speech choose a topic that interests you and is appropriate for your audience. Research your topic and make notes. Then rest assured that you know more than your audience on that topic. You are the expert! Your enthusiasm will then be contagious.

2. Use cue cards to your advantage rather than writing your speech word for word, list the important points along with hints for gestures and even a reminder to SMILE. This will provide audience contact and prevent you from reading a speech word for word.

3. Practice before a mirror with a tape recorder or use a video recorder. Taping yourself will lead to improvements in speech pitch, speed and clarity. The mirror will highlight nervous unconscious movements such as rocking or putting hands in and out of pockets.

4. Dress to look confident. Distracting jewelry and accessories should be left off. Allow the audience to focus on your message.

5. Accept the fact that you are going to be nervous. To counteract nervousness, try tightening and relaxing your stomach muscles and taking deep breaths while waiting for your turn to speak.

Tips For Buying Appliances

Has your washing machine washed it's last pair of coveralls? Has your dryer died?

For most consumers, a major appliance is a large item in their budget. To keep satisfaction high and disappointment low, The Soap and Detergent Association offers the following pointers.

First, study all the dealer's available printed materials. Specification sheets will help you compare different features, designs and capacities on different makes and models. Check the warranty to find out how long the coverage is in effect, if it covers the entire product or only certain parts, and if labour is included. The appliance manual gives you "hidden" information, such as how the product operates and special care required.

Compare what you have learned with your personal requirements. What features will you really use? Will the use justify any extra cost? Will this model allow you to add on features in the future? Does the size meet your family's lifestyle requirements? Will the appliance fit where you plan to install it... with sufficient clearance to open doors or accommodate family traffic patterns? Does your home have adequate electrical service for the appliance receptacles? Clearly establish the cost of delivery and installation. Does this include removal of your old appliance? How much will that cost? Does the dealer service the appliance he sells? If not, find the nearest location for authorized factory service.

Once you receive that new appliance, don't wait until it's too late to discover that something doesn't work properly. Warranties are based on time, not usage. Since most defects show up during the first few uses, make a point of trying out each feature and testing the controls in the early stages of ownership. If you should have a problem, contact the dealer or service agency immediately. If they don't handle the problem to your satisfaction, contact the manufacturer. Keep a "paper trail," i.e. put your complaints in writing, then keep a copy of all correspondence and service receipts, including no-charge, in-warranty calls. This type of documentation will help settle any conflicts that might arise.

Many thanks to Kerry Engel, DHE in Westlock for this informative article.

CARSTAIRS NEWS

New store offers basics

By Janice Harrington

A new store in Carstairs is helping wage the environmental war by offering bulk food to area residents.

Kitchen Basics, which opened its doors last October, offers row after row of quality bulk foods, eliminating wasteful packaging and extra costs; a great bonus in these tough economic and environmentally concerning times.

Store owners Jocelyne and Robert Fournier decided to open the bulk food store last year after moving to Carstairs from Calgary.

Despite a real affection for the area, Jocelyne was disheartened with having to drive back to the city every time she wanted to do some bulk food shopping.

"So we decided that a bulk food store would be a good idea here," she said. "And that is part of the reason why we opened."

The Fournier's concern over the state of the environment was another factor in their decision to open the store, and why they offer a 5 per cent discount to customers who bring their own containers to cart home purchases.

Seniors also receive a discount at Kitchen Basics; 10 per cent during the first week of every month.

This being the Fournier's first venture in to retail store ownership, they are cautiously optimistic about how the bulk food concept is being received in Carstairs.

"We started out pretty slow," said Jocelyne, "but we are getting quite a lot of repeat business now. I think that for environmental reasons alone, bulk food buying will get more popular."

Kitchen Basics is open Tuesday through Thursday 10 to 5 p.m., Friday 10 to 6 p.m. and Saturday 10 to 3 p.m.

CREMONA/WATER VALLEY NEWS

Cremona Gold and Silver news

The January birthday party was hosted by Audrey Rigsby and friends. The theme was hard times, empty pockets and no money after the Christmas spending season. Tablecloths were old grocery flyers, centrepieces were tin cans, labels and all with living green bean plants and grain shoots.

The bag lady, the scrub-woman and all the other ragged unfortunates were a sight to behold but they managed to sing us some songs about their terrible situation. When the door prize was drawn it turned out to be a rubber cheque!

The February potluck supper was enjoyable as always with excellent food and friendly conversation. President Ted Seeley chaired the meeting that followed. Reports were given on bowling, cribbage, whist and bridge. We were pleased to hear that our team won two gold medals in the cribbage games at Sundre.

The carpet bowling team is especially active and recently participated in an afternoon of games in Crossfield.

Exercise classes have not evoked much interest so they have been discontinued. Our seniors are much too busy to stop and exercise!

The oldtimers' curling bonspiel will be held Feb. 21 and 22 at the Cremona Curling Rink.

Plans are being made for a bus trip to Rosebud Dinner Theatre in April. The play is a comedy entitled "Skinflint" so it should be fun.

The winning tickets for the folding picnic chair and the handknit sweater will be drawn on June 4. We are sorry to hear that Hilda Kopp, who made and donated the sweater, is in the hospital. Greetings and best wishes to Hilda and all our other members who are on the sick list.

Everyone is invited to the 80th birthday party for Nellie Davies on Saturday, Feb. 22 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Gold and Silver Centre. Happy Birthday, Nellie, from all of your many friends.

Second gym meeting planned

A second meeting on the modernization of the Cremona School is planned for February 18.

The meeting, which will discuss a proposed expansion of a new gymnasium for the school, will be held in the current Cremona School gym at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone who has an interest in the school's modernization or the proposed expansion is encouraged to attend the meeting. If you have any questions, please contact Charlie Van Arnum at 337-2463.

FACING AIDS

BI-SEXUAL MEN AND AIDS

He's the picture of a family man. He is happily married, has a couple of children and a good job that takes him out of town every so often. He could be anybody's helpful neighbour. The difference between this man and many others is, he has sex with other men.

It may not be often, but when he has sex with other men he may take part in some pretty unsafe sexual practices. Unfortunately, chances are that the family man and his male partner don't use a condom. Neither of them takes precautions against infection with HIV, the virus that leads to AIDS.

People who have sex with both men and women are called bi-sexual. No matter how seldom they have sex with other men, bi-sexual men are at greater risk than most men of becoming infected with HIV. Certain sexual practices common during sex between men are more likely to result in the spread of HIV, if a condom is not used.

Bi-sexual men run the same risks of HIV infection that gay men do, but there is an additional risk in the sex lives of these men. Their wives or female partners may get the virus without any knowledge that they are at risk.

Women often use some form of birth control other than a condom. A bi-sexual man who suddenly suggests using a condom would send to explain his other sexual contacts. Yes if he does not use one, he runs the risk of giving HIV to his female partner. If she became infected there is a 30 per cent risk she could pass the virus to her unborn child if she became pregnant.

If you are a man who has sex with other men, whether once a week or once a year, are you prepared to risk the health, security and future of your loved ones? Have you been tested for HIV? Will you make the move to practice safer sex - using a latex condom? Make a decision you can live with!

TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

Travelling guitar

Calgary's Justin Curtis and Outer Limits teaches children in Miss Kendall's Ross Ford ECS Class about harmony last Wednesday. Curtis, born in Water Valley, recently returned to Calgary from Nashville where he lived for five years. He and his band specialize in rock-a-billy music.

The Edmonton home care office is doing their utmost to assist the Wegner's, and I believe the province has left local boards of health unable to meet the real needs of their home care clients.

I suspect when the government expanded home care and Handicapped Children's Services shuffled all new clients to the Department of Health, officials had no idea of the problems they would be creating for families. Now, local health units are left reeling under the increasing demand for service, while the province has dug in its heels by insisting families can get no more than $3,000.00 a month.

It is absolutely absurd. Here we are in a province where the Premier and his Council in Support of Families is knee-deep in rhetoric over how much they are going to start helping families and yet they refuse to give families like the Wegner's and the Hare's enough home care assistance to bring their babies home and to try to normalize their lives as much as possible.

The government's latest pro-family stance is reason enough to lift the cap on home care but even from a cold-hearted economic point of view, the hospital bed costs for these babies is approximately $1,100.00 a day, this is no where near the money required for home care. Surely, if the government cannot relate to the savings in human costs the dollar figures will convince them.

I believe the solution to this government-created tragedy is to keep the $3,000.00 figure for budget purposes but to build in some flexibility that would recognize the extended home care needs of a few and provide for them; ensuring decisions are based on needs and economics and not an arbitrary dollar figure.

In honour of the government's coveted Family Day, I am pleading with the Premier to give home care the resources it needs to get on with the job. Nicholas and Samuel deserve and need to come home to their families.

OBITUARIES

Anna Wiebe passed away into the presence of her Lord the evening of Feb. 2, 1992 at the Three Hills Health Care Centre at the age of 73. She was born in the village of Liebenau, Ukraine Russia, on April 5, 1918. Her parents were Jacob and Margaret (Kroeker) Wiens.

Anna was orphaned at an early age. Her mother died when she was one year old, and her father when she was three. With her older brother William, and her sister Katherina, she was raised in the home of her aunt and uncle, John and Sara (Kroeker) Rempel. They immigrated to Canada when Anna was 6, and settled eventually on a farm near Munsen where she grew up and completed her schooling. She attended Bible School for two years at M.B.I. Those were happy times where lasting friendships were made.

On August 20, 1944, John and Anna were united in marriage and settled on John's father's farm near Neapolis where they raised three daughters.

Anna was a kind and generous woman who loved to give. Her warm hospitality was enjoyed by a wide circle of family and friends. Her love of brightness and beauty was evidenced by the beautiful bouquets of flowers arranged around the house in the summertime, the lovely handwork she did; her love of good books and music. She was devoted to her family, the children and the grandchildren, and her greatest desire was that her loved ones, and the folks she came into contact with would know and serve the Heavenly Father she loved.

Anna was predeceased by her parents, Jacob and Margaret Wiens, her foster parents John and Sara Rempel, and her brother William in 1959.

Anna will be lovingly remembered and sorely missed by her husband John, three daughters and their families: Margaret and Jim Krukowski, Three Hills, Anita and Dan Siemens, Olds, Laura and Ron Toews, Whitehorse, Yukon, five grandchildren; Greg and Colin Krukowski, Matthew and Lea Anne Siemens, and Charity Toews; one sister Katherina Wiens of Chilliwack, B.C. and many relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, Feb. 6, at the Berghal Mennonite Church, with Pastor Norman Bergen officiating.

If desired, memorial tributes may be made to Gideon Bibles or to the charity of choice.

Funeral arrangements entrusted to Linden Funeral Service.

TOPLEY

John Elwood Topley passed away at the Didsbury Health Care Centre on Feb. 7, 1992, at the age of 73 years.

Elwood was born on Jan. 26, 1919, and attended Poplar Creek, Jutland and Didsbury High School. He farmed the family farm east of Didsbury in the Lone Pine District until retiring to Calgary for two years then 1965 settled in Didsbury where he resided until his passing.

Elwood will be missed by his many friends and was always ready to give a helping hand. His pleasure was farming and growing garden.

He is survived by his wife Atha Topley of Ponoka, Alta., and step daughter Dorothy (Del) Mulsley of Ottawa and families, Mulsley of Ottawa and families, his sisters Elsie McLeod of North Vancouver and Grace (Norman) McLeod of Powell River, B.C. as well as a host of relatives and friends.

Elwood was predeceased by his parents Esther and John Topley, two sisters Jessie (Stan) Thompson of Penticton, B.C. and Joyce (Verdie) Luther of Palm Springs, California.

By Elwood's request there will be no funeral or memorial service.

In lieu of flowers memorials may be made to Lifeline, c/o Annie Pringle, Box 294, Didsbury, Alta.

In Memoriam

KREBS - In Memory of Elsie who passed away February 22, 1991.

You always took pride in our accomplishments; the curling games, the bowling tournaments and music lessons. Yet, you always quietly pushed for us to do the best that we could do. . . .

You always took time to listen to us. To share in our excitement over the little things in life; from the pretty butterfly to our first date. Yet, you always had an ear to listen to our insignificant problems and offered sound advice.

You were willing to play games with us and taught us that it isn't the winning that counts, it's the togetherness.

In spite of all the things left unsaid, we cherished your love and look back with very fond memories.

—Lovingly remembered by Mike and her children Mike, Laurie, Shirley and their families 42-1tp

Didsbury Hospital Volunteers

Annual Meeting By Helen Brown

The 27th annual meeting of the Hospital Volunteers was held Thursday, Feb. 6, in the assembly room of the Nursing Home with 24 members and guests present. President Hazel Milne opened the meeting with the Auxiliary prayer and welcomed all who had come. Sixteen different community clubs were represented.

The president's report printed below showed that the volunteers had had a busy and successful year and had logged 3,113 volunteer hours.

Kim Andres, director of Recreational Therapy and of Volunteers, expressed her appreciation for the work done by the Volunteers making it possible for the Health Care Centre to maintain a high quality of patient care.

As director of Volunteers she noted that 21 teens are performing well. Each girl will work in all four units of the centre, seven weeks at a time. Awards night to which the parents will be invited will be held June 2.

The treasurer's report, given by Annie Pringle, showed a good balance. Pringle also reported that 1,124 meals had been delivered in 1991 under the Meals on Wheels program. Life Line program is well under way with 25 on the program.

Frieda Derksen, who organizes the Blood Donor clinic, said that 102 units of blood had been collected. The trophy was won by the high school for the second year.

Myra Underhay reported that the birthday teas had been well attended and thanked the participating clubs for their care and dedication.

Ellen Richardson has completed the schedule for Sunday Singing and would be very happy to have more singing groups volunteer to fill in the gaps in the roster.

Ruth Sverdahd gave an account of the regional meeting in Red Deer which five of the Volunteers had attended. Hazel Milne and Annie Pringle had completed two years as president and secretary-treasurer of the regional and were presented with gifts for their fine service.

Frieda Derksen presented the report of the nominating committee and the following slate of officers was accepted: Past President Frieda Derksen, President Hazel Milne Vice-President Myra Underhay, Secretary Ruth Sverdahd, Treasurer Dora Johnson; Purchasing Committee: Dora Johnson, Gwladys Bogner, Annie Pringle, Anne Jepps; Store Schedule: Frieda Derksen; Publicity, Photography: Helen Brown and Viivan McKee and Historian Volunteers Program: Hazel Milne; Teas: Nursing Home - Myra Underhay; Auxiliary - Hannah Neufeld; Sunday Singing: Ellen Richardson; Bursary Committee: Doll Ahlgrim, Vivian McKee, Eleanor Clark; Carstairs Representative: Gladys Dowell.

Ole Petersen and Marg Scheyen of the Kidney Foundation, Red Deer, presented an excellent program by means of video and lecture on "The Gift of Life." Since Petersen himself is a recipient of a kidney transplant he stressed the need for more organ donors and financial support for the foundation.

The Volunteers will collect for the foundation on March 13.

Hazel Milne then presented Petersen and Scheyen with a check for $50.00.

President Hazel Milne closed the meeting by expressing the appreciation of the Volunteers for the cooperation and friendship of all the community clubs who had assisted in the programs of the Volunteers and by reading a poem entitled, "My Purpose."

God grant to me the strength of heart
Of motive and of will
To do my part and falter not
His purpose to fulfil.

President's report for 1991 By Hazel Milne

In January, the Volunteers presented the New Year's Babe with $500.00 worth of merchandise; namely car seat (infant), stroller, bathinette, clothing and diapers, etc.

I attended the Executive Meeting in Edmonton of the Association in January. February, we had the annual meeting. The Kidney Foundation from Red Deer had a representative, Nancy Verdier, there. She was the recipient of a kidney. The film and talk was most informative. We made a donation of $50.00 to the foundation. The wheelchair arrived and it was donated to the Day Care Unit. We also purchased a clock for the assembly room. A new table top was installed on the table in the kitchen—old one would not pass the health inspector and would have interfered with hospital accreditation survey. New smocks were bought for the Volunteers.

March 1, 1991 we held a kidney blitz and collected $340.80 for the Kidney Foundation. I'd like to thank all the clubs that participated.

March 14, we had an Appreciation Supper and invited those who worked in the gift shop.

Meals on wheels were delivered in March and September.

In March we canvassed for the Lung Association.

In May we had our Florence Nightingale Tea and Bake Sale. Tickets were sold on the Friendship Quilt that we had made. A successful Carnation was held too.

In June we sponsored the Blood Donors Clinic, which was well supported by the community. The Trophy went to the High School again.

In January, May, September, we had members in attendance at the Regional meetings. In October, we organized a workshop on "Pastoral Care" in Lacombe with several of our members participating.

In June I was lucky to be able to go to the Canadian Convention at Toronto; for which I thank the Hospital Board who saw that my way was paid.

In September we purchased 2 ceiling fans (one for the kitchen, the other for the gift shop). We purchased 12 white tablecloths.

At Halloween we put on a party in the Auxiliary for all the residents. The residents enjoyed the music and the costumes.

In October I went to the "Wellness for Women" convention in Edmonton. It was most educational, dealing on Battered Women.

Four members attended the Provincial Convention in Edmonton.

On Dec. 4 we held the Christmas Bazaar and raffled the quilt. Joyce Topping held the lucky ticket. The Nutman was also in attendance. Proceeds from the quilt raffle went to purchase a Ear Thermometer and a Medication Infusion Pump (used in Palliative Care) at a cost of $1,200.00 each. They were presented early in January, in fact same day as the New Year's Baby received the gifts that we gave.

The Auxiliary delivers ice cream cones to all the residents, staff and visitors once a month. With the help of clubs or groups we strive to keep the gift shop open on a daily basis and have the tuck cart go around the hospital twice a week.

I have worked with Kim Andres with the Volunteer Program. This year we have 23 enrolled. All seem to be enjoying their duties. Oranges were delivered to all in the hospitals.

We have been busy processing some 700 excellent books that you, the people of Didsbury have generously donated to us.

Come in and browse to see what your friends and neighbors have been reading. Meet your Library Board over coffee and cake.
